

JATROPHA | Preparations for production in high gear

Workers of Jatropha Energy Kenya move heavy farm and factory equipment to the controversial Dakacha Woodland in Magarini District of Kilifi in anticipation that the government will issue the Italian-owned firm with a licence to undertake Jatropha farming in the more than 50,000-acre field. Environmentalists opposed to the project say the farm is home to rare birds and vegetation.

ROBERT NYAGA | NATION