

Prime Minister, the UK urgently needs a Marine Act now, before it's too late...

BOTTLENOSE DOLPHIN

Tursiops truncatus

Found in UK seas in the early 21st century

Causes of extinction:
poor management & inadequate
marine legislation

Over 1/4 million people are calling on Gordon Brown to include a full Marine Bill in November's Queen's Speech.

A Marine Act will greatly improve the prospects of many rare and threatened marine species that may otherwise disappear from UK seas by introducing Marine Protected Areas and other conservation measures, a marine planning system and by modernising inshore fisheries.

