

Dove Stone in the Peak District National Park

Dove Stone Reservoir trail

This 2.6 mile circular walk around Dove Stone Reservoir takes about 1-2 hours. It offers fantastic views of the countryside and passes wild flower meadows and woodlands. The path is surfaced and suitable for wheelchairs and pushchairs, although it is a little steep in places.

You can access the trail from the main car park (most suitable access point for disabled visitors) or from Binn Green car park, follow the 0.4 mile path through the woods.

Yeoman Hey Reservoir trail

Spend an hour or so walking this 1.5 mile circular trail around Yeoman Hey Reservoir. The views of the surrounding landscape are breathtaking. The path is rough and gets muddy in places, but it is often quieter than the main Dove Stone trail.

You can join this trail by following the 0.4 mile path through the woods from Binn Green car park or from halfway round the Dove Stone Reservoir trail.

working together for people, water and wildlife

